

William Green

Jazz Pianist/Performer/Producer

Currently the music director of 5-time Grammy nominee Susan Tedeschi, Williams Green's energy and talent ignite any stage he graces. William has just released his second Adult Jazz album entitled "Green Valley". Highlights include a track featuring jazz great Boney James, and several singles; which have been picked up for play on the National Weather Channel.

William Green has paid his musical dues, spending 10 years on the road with Peabo Bryson, and has worked with such artist as Cameo, Dennis Edwards, Jean Carnes, and Jennifer Holiday. While performing with Susan Tedeschi, William had the privilege to appear as the opening act for the Rolling Stones.

The son of a Baptist Minister and a mother who sang background for Mahalia Jackson, William and his 5 siblings would re-create the entire church service around the family piano, where William would act as music director.

William graduated from Chicago Vocational High where he learned how to read, write and compose music. He later furthered his education at Morehouse and at Georgia State in the Commercial Music Department. You can catch William playing concert dates in Atlanta and worldwide.
